ID for Immigration: The New Landscape

connect: ID, brought to you by the IBIA and SMP, is the foremost gathering of identity solutions experts. This year's event will be happening April 30 through May 2 here in Washington, DC and will tackle some of today's most pressing challenges. For example, ID for Immigration.

United Nations statistics reveal that in excess of 257 million people now live outside of their country of origin, accounting for approximately 3.2% of the global population. More people are on the move than at any time in human history, and international travel has never been easier, cheaper or faster. This presents a complex set of immigration challenges that require integrated solutions.

This session will take place on the 2nd day of the conference at 10:45am and will be moderated by Kelli Emerick, Executive Director of the Secure ID Coalition, USA. The panel will address the challenges surrounding immigration policy and border management, and how identity based technologies are helping achieve better outcomes. Paul Hunter, Chief of Biometrics Strategy, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, Department of Homeland Security, USA and Rodger Werner, Special Agent, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, USA will provide institutional perspectives on the role of ID in immigration from conceptualization to implementation, and expert Stephen Santa Ana, Biometrics Project Manager, Identity Intelligence Unit, Terrorist Screening Center, USA, will help inform how identity-based solutions are required for today's challenges.
